

Abstract

A watch mechanism comprising a plurality of movements.
Each movement has a face and each movement is capable of 5 operating independently of each other movement. Each movement being capable of being removed from the watch independently of each other movement and each movement being capable of operation following the removal of one or more other movements.

10